Dear Parent/Carer,

Maths is at heart of everyday life; whether it is calculating the best value at the shops or working out how long a journey will take, it is difficult to avoid, and essential to understand. To that end, I want to thank you for all the support you have given your child to help them better understand the mathematics they have been learning across the school and at home through homework. The question I am asked most as a teacher is, "How can I support my child in maths at home?" This is usually quickly followed by, "It's not how I learnt it at school!" And it is true, methods, teaching techniques and the journey children take in mathematics has changed since we were at school. So how can you best support your child? The answer is to understand that journey and be part of it.

I would like to invite you to be part of a workshop taking place on Wednesday 18th October at 2:45 pm. The session will be a relaxed look at the way we teach, what we teach and how you can be part of it by supporting maths learning at home. This will be an opportunity for you to become more involved in your child's maths journey, with you working with your child in a fun and relaxed way.

The aims of the session is:

- Share with you some of the things your child will be learning in school
- Improve your confidence in helping your child with maths
- Share with you the home learning activities

I look forward to meeting you.
